Prof. Sanjay Patnaik attended the UN Paris climate conference in December 2015 as part of an observer delegation from GWU. In this information session he will talk about his experience at the conference, share insights from sessions he attended with world leaders, and provide an inside view into some of the key elements of international climate negotiations. He will particularly focus on the implications of the Paris climate agreement for business leaders, firms, and investors and discuss the role of carbon pricing in addressing climate change. Prof. Patnaik will further present some of the most recent trends in the regulations of greenhouse gases around the world and explore how they will affect companies.
