Sharing Rules

Students may share up to 9 credits of the courses listed above between the undergraduate and graduate degrees. These credits may only be used as electives in the undergraduate degree. Students must meet with a GWSB Undergraduate Advisor to determine how to best utilize the graduate courses in the undergraduate degree.

Degree Overview

Students in the MSIB program complete two consulting courses – one working overseas with a client, and the other for an international organization here in Washington, D.C. They also participate in a professional seminar, which includes resume, interview, and technical skills workshops as well as advice sessions from employers and alumni. A broad selection of electives gives students the flexibility to tailor your degree to emphasize your specific career interests.

Admissions Requirements

Students interested in the combined MSIB degree program must meet the same standard for admission to the MSIB program as Master’s students. Students must have a 3.0 minimum GPA for their undergraduate program and be in good academic standing with the University to be eligible for admission.
